'KIND AND BRAVE'

Daughter thanks those who gave first aid to father after rush-hour crash

REPORTER

RACHAEL BURFORD

rachael.burford@london.newsquest.co.uk

The daughter of the cyclist who was left fighting for his life after a crash in New Malden has encouraged cycling safety and thanked bystanders who helped her father.

Siobhan Sharp, 24, said her police officer father was training to cycle in the Prudential Ride London race on Sunday to raise money for the NSPCC charity when he was hit by a car in Portland Avenue, just before 6pm last Wednesday. He was cycling on a 20-mile training route home from work with just three miles to go when he was knocked down. He was taken to St George's Hospital in a critical condition.

Miss Sharp, from Kingston, said: "He was cycling on his way home from work, which was to be the last time he planned to cycle before the Pru 100 on Sunday.

"The NSPCC is important to him because in his line of work he has come across lots of vulnerable children and has seen how agencies like the NSPCC really help them.

"We have been told that a passer-by, who was a GP, administered first aid while waiting for the ambulance to arrive which is amazingly kind and brave. The staff at St George's have also been wonderful in helping him and us through this. We would also like to thank any witnesses who stayed to help the police gather statements."

Her father was taken to the major trauma unit in St George's where he underwent plastic surgery on his ear and was diagnosed with a double fracture of the neck.

No arrests had been made as the Kingston Guardian went to press.

Kingston police has launched an appeal for witnesses.

Former Rose Theatre employee Miss Sharp said she hoped her father's accident would encourage other cyclists to think about their safety when riding.

She said: "The damage to my dad's helmet has shown us that it was vital in protecting him from sustaining even more serious injuries. Hopefully this will encourage other cyclists to wear theirs.

"He is now on the road to recovery and we feel extremely lucky that he will recover considering the severity of the accident."

Witnesses should call Kingston police on 101 (reference 0407201/15).

JON SHARMAN

A new team of police officers handed the toughest beat in the borough has announced the results of its first few months on the mean streets of Kingston.

With 200 crimes committed in May and 198 in June, this part of Grove ward bordered by the railway station and bus station to the north and east, and Kingston Crown Court to the south, is as busy as sections of central London.

Kingston Council and Mayor of London Boris Johnson invested £1.2m in hiring extra police officers for the particular area earlier this year.

The 15-strong team is led by sergeants Dave Williams and Will Holland and has notched 109 arrests since getting to work in April.

Alleged offences include carrying a knife, serious assaults, handling stolen goods and fraud.

Sgt Williams said: "It is a very busy team, the crime figures show it.

"We are working a lot of overtime. I am lucky to have a group of people that are really keen and up for it.

"As soon as they book in at the beginning of the shift, they are running around all day, and more – they are lapping it up. I think we are reaping the benefits.

"We have definitely seen business crime coming down since we started and cycle theft continues to fall.

"We work quite closely with the town centre link radio system. We actually end up reacting a lot of the time to calls that come directly to us.

"And we are able to get to stuff town centre-related quicker because it cuts out the call centre part."

As well as making arrests, town centre team members find themselves on plain-clothed patrols, running in-depth investigations and working with the probation service in the cases of prolific offenders.

The investment in extra policing was a Conservative manifesto pledge ahead of last May's local elections – but the Liberal Democrats in Kingston have argued the council should not have to fork out the money for it.

Deputy Kingston Council leader Gaj Wallooppillai said: "We will not tolerate people feeling unsafe."

Burning rubber

REPORTER

ndewji@london.newsquest.co.uk

Tyres burned rubber and saddles shook as 25,000 cyclists thundered through the capital and Kingston twice at the weekend for the annual Ride London challenge.

Roads normally used to the roar of passing cars instead echoed to the noise of bells, pedals and the cheers of the crowd as the event organised to celebrate the legacy of the 2012 Olympics marked its third anniversary.

The 100-mile route began in Queen Elizabeth Olympic Park in East London, before winding its way through Richmond Park and Kingston before leaving via Hampton Court on Sunday.

Kingston's Ancient Market Place welcomed the hand cycle race in the morning, while crowds later gathered for a bike festival where giant screens were put up and an inflatable race course laid out alongside musicians and BMX riders who performed as cyclists passed through.

This newspaper's sports editor Tim Ashton completed the course in six hours and 22 minutes, raising almost £400 for Children with Cancer.

The Reverend Kevin Scott, from St John the Baptist Church, in Old Malden, Worcester Park, praised the Lord after riding on a wing and a prayer to complete the course in six hours and 36 minutes, raising £1,100 for Christian Aid in the process.

'Zac should speak out closer to home'

REPORTER

RACHAEL BURFORD

rachael.burford@
london.newsquest.co.uk

Richmond and north Kingston MP Zac Goldsmith has attacked proposals for a high-rise development – but it is not one in Kingston.

The Conservative London mayoral hopeful has spoken out over a 16-storey skyscraper in Purley.

Mr Goldsmith expressed his opposition in a letter to Croydon Council leader Councillor Tony Newman.

He described the tower as “clearly oversized” and said it would “utterly dominate the area”.

But his comments have angered some Kingston residents who have asked why he has not been quite so vocal about proposed high-rise development in his own borough.

Andree Frieze, of Kingston Residents' Alliance (KRA), said: “It seems that Mayoral hopeful Zac Goldsmith cares more for the opinions of residents in his would-be constituency of Purley than those of his actual constituents in Richmond Park.

“Clearly, Zac Goldsmith will support Tories in their battles, but not residents with theirs.”

Kingston and Surbiton MP James Berry is the political representative for this part of the constituency according to ward boundaries and has previously spoken out against high-rise developments.

But Mr Goldsmith tweeted the group back last week and said: “I have had numerous conversations with the council about this, and our views are known.”

He added he would study any plans submitted for the borough and said: “My starting point is a very strong preference for in-keeping high-density low rise.”

KRA had previously protested against a 19-storey tower block at the old post office site in Ashdown Road before this application was withdrawn and taken back to the drawing board by developer St George.

The alliance is now set to tackle plans for the town centre's biggest proposed tower yet at 63.1m and again 19 storeys.

The Eden Walk General

Partnership, a joint venture between British Land and Universities Superannuation Scheme (USS), will submit a planning application for 400 flats in Eden Walk in the autumn.

Kingston Council leader Councillor Kevin Davis said: “It is all about quality of design and material.”

“I don't think we can blanket all tall buildings as wrong because some are very nice.”

Mr Goldsmith said: “Proposals for the old post office site have been withdrawn, and when they come back I hope they will have taken on board local concerns, which the council knows I share.”

“Other applications for high rise in Kingston are yet to be submitted.”

“If they are inappropriate for our area, I will object as I always do.”

“My starting point is a strong preference for more traditional high density low-rise development, in keeping with the area.”

“We need more homes but it is crucial that new developments enhance, rather than undermine communities.”

'Police need to say sorry'

REPORTER

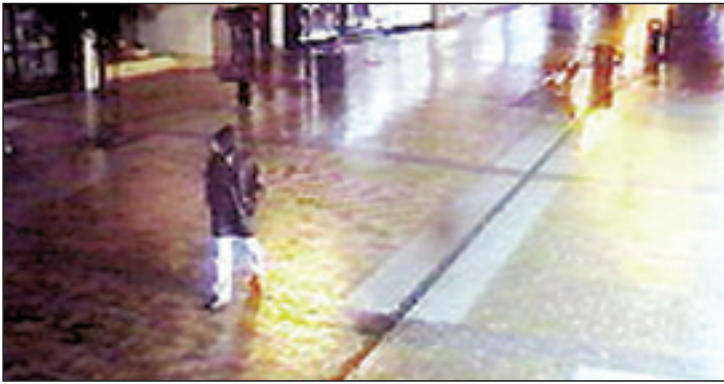

RACHAEL BURFORD

rachael.burford@
london.newsquest.co.uk

A mother spied on by police after the death of her son in Kingston has expressed disappointment the Metropolitan Police has not publicly apologised.

Sukhdev Reel, 65, was finally invited to Scotland Yard and allowed to see secret reports into police spying on her family while she campaigned to find out what happened to her 20-year-old son Ricky after he was found dead in the Thames in 1997.

But Mrs Reel said she was "misled" about the number and contents of reports she found had been almost entirely redacted, providing "crumbs of information".

Mystery: A still from CCTV showing a possible suspect who had been walking up and down Clarence Street on the night of the alleged murder of Ricky Reel, inset

Mrs Reel described the recent meeting as an "exercise of rubbing salt in to our open wounds" as she was handed a letter rather than the public apology she had so long demanded.

She said: "The meeting was just a paper exercise.

"We were given redacted reports that really do not make sense to me.

"At the end of the meeting we get a letter from [Met professionalism assistant commissioner] Martin Hewitt saying 'I am very sorry that we fell so far short of our responsibility to handle information'.

"But we want the police to say that in public and not just in a letter. They make all these mistakes then they hide in a corner.

"Come out publicly and say it."

Ricky's body was pulled from the Thames on October 21, 1997, a week after he was last seen in Options nightclub, now Pryzm, in Clarence Street.

He and his friends were said to have been racially abused by a gang of white men before his disappearance.

Mrs Reel believes Ricky was racially murdered, but Kingston police have always maintained there is no evidence suggesting foul play.

Mrs Reel is now hoping a public inquiry, launched earlier this year, will give her the answers that she and her family, as well as other victims of police spying, deserve.

Mrs Reel, from West Drayton, said: "Lessons need to be learned now not in 10 or 15 year's time.

"The judge in this inquiry has to understand that there are campaigns like ours that will not go away because we have been damaged by this spying."

It was last year that Mrs Reel first learned she had been spied on by police.

Others affected included the families of Stephen Lawrence and Jean Charles de Menezes.

The allegations came to light as part of Operation Herne, a £1.6m-a-year investigation into undercover police conduct.

John Azah, chief executive of Kingston Race and Equalities Council, chaired a Justice for Ricky Reel campaign in 1998 and sat on a panel overseeing the second police investigation into his death.

His name had also been included in data collected by undercover police officers.

Mr Azah said: "If the police do not disclose everything they can they continue to make the families distrustful of the service.

"The Reel family are entitled to a public apology. It won't repair the damage, but it will go some way to rebuilding their trust."

A Metropolitan Police spokesman said: "The MPS have approached these discussions as a private matter between the MPS and the families and representatives of these campaigns."

New jobs claim is not correct

I was very disappointed to hear of the proposals by Lidl to relocate its UK headquarters to the site of the Jubilee Way Motorcycle Project (JWMCP).

Your article (500 new jobs in Lidl move, July 23) suggests that 500 jobs would be created.

Would these jobs not be filled by workers who currently reside in the UK headquarters, based in Worples Road, Wimbledon?

Chessington is only a few miles from Wimbledon, so commuting the extra distance for staff based at Wimbledon would not be an issue.

Indeed, the potential is that staff who travel north on the A3 would be passing the new proposed site already.

The JWMCP was, I understand, set up for young people who had an interest in motorcycles and had nowhere legal that they could ride their off-road motorcycles.

Some of these young people were, I believe, young offenders and had been prosecuted for riding illegally around the borough.

Since the JWMCP opened, the amount of illegal riding around the area has reduced to almost zero. On occasions, you could not walk in fields around Tolworth and Chessington for fear of being mown down by these illegal riders.

The JWMCP is sponsored by two local companies (Tippetts Honda and CDR Electrical Wholesalers) who obviously believe in the interests of young people and giving them a safe, secure area for them to enjoy the sport in a controlled and monitored environment.

If the Lidl development goes ahead and the JWMCP is not rehomed within the area, we will see an increase in off-road riding within industrial estates, open green spaces and, potentially, local roads.

So why could Lidl not propose the old MAFF site on the edge of the A3 as a suitable site? Ah yes, it has been sold to Tesco, who have submitted various applications to Kingston Council for yet another superstore, even though there is one already three miles off the A3 at New Malden.

While I am not against the thought of new housing within the borough, the plans propose a whole housing development – with the potential of housing more than 1,000 residents.

These residents will presumably have children, so where are the new leisure facilities for these kids?

There is no sign of any extra leisure activities for them, not even any play areas. Just another concrete urbanisation springing up in an already overcrowded area.

I recently visited the JWMCP project with my eight-year-old nephew. My wife and I decided that we would like to treat him to a little something different for his birthday.

Vic and Allen were superb with their help and assistance to my rather nervous but keen nephew. They provided excellent guidance and assistance with helping him overcome his fears and provided first class safety clothing and equipment for him to wear.

Within an hour, my nephew was being chaperoned around the intermediate circuit by the instructor.

My nephew's confidence was building with every lap of the circuit and, when the session finished, he was beside himself with excitement.

So what would have been the alternative to him trying out this sport? Buy a second hand bike (condition unknown, with possible safety defects) find a field and let him go.

I for one am very angry about the proposed plans and would be very happy to assist in any way with the JWMCP to prevent the build or, at least, locate a suitable alternative site, where the project can continue and flourish for future generations of young motorcycle riders.

MIKE WILLIS
 Via email

- Your headline recently about Lidl relocating its offices to Tolworth, creating 500 jobs, is incorrect.

These are existing jobs, with Lidl stating there may be room for further employment. At what cost though?

A reputable and highly successful family-run motocross site, where children learn to ride motorbikes safely, with some even stating it helped get them off the streets and out of trouble, is to close and the family only notified of this last month. This is shameful.

There are a number of empty office buildings with parking facilities on both Chessington industrial estates.

Our new council leader is really going out of his way to anger the residents of the borough and now has plans to take away committee planning decisions as well.

The existing employees will bring trade to the Broadway, which is good news, but they will also bring cars, pollution and fill up our two trains an hour, which are already sometimes at capacity.

Greed and arrogance will be Kevin Davis's downfall. Watch this space.

ANDREA TUCKER
 Chessington

- A good idea on the surface, as it will bring employment to the area. Traffic will be an even greater issue than it already is, so this should be restricted to staff who have mobility problems.

Before planning permission is granted, the council should find a suitable alternative home for the bike track – the people who currently use it, and generate a living from it, should not have to suffer.

Also, Arrow Plastics have potentially lost out here. They should have been given a priority as they are a local business and it looks like they have been squeezed out.

I expect Lidl gave the better offer, but money should not be the overriding factor when it comes to these things.

Cyclists – ban the lot of them or get them to pay road tax

I read with great interest the letter from Norman Whigg (Little time for cyclists, July 23) about the [Ride London] "lycra brigade".

I have written to Prudential about this but, as expected, received no reply to my questions about who is going to compensate London buses and the black cabs for lost income. London buses and the black cabs have diplomatically not replied to any communications from me.

So, the question remains – just who is going to pay compensation? The losses, together with the disruption and road closures, must be astronomical, just so a large number of lycra lovers can speed around roads free of any charges.

Also, in the same edition, I saw an article about the super Metropolitan Police of Kingston who, in the true sense of getting their man, were seen to swarm in pursuit of a hit-and-run driver.

May I ask just when the Met Police will once again swarm and actually do something in the way of on-the-spot fining or arresting and taking to court cyclists who insist on riding around Kingston shopping malls and pedestrian areas with total disregard to mums with toddlers and children?

I would assume that 90 per cent of these cyclists are not insured and, having hit someone, all they do is peddle off at a great rate of knots.

The police will, of course, say they lack manpower. Fair enough, but, if so, just where do they obtain the manpower from to police this unwanted blasted cycle event?

I have in the past been almost knocked over by a cyclist, cycling into Lloyds Bank. A second cyclist actually hit me in Sainsbury's when I enquired if there was not enough room outside to park his bike.

Cyclists? Ban the lot of them or force them to get insured and pay a road fund and force them to keep off the pavements.

Summer at Sandown Park is a time when all of us here at the course look forward to adding some great family entertainment to put alongside our top class racing. On Friday 21st and 22nd August we have both in abundance.

Friday sees our inaugural Sports Taster Raceday with racegoers able to bring their whole family to sample a range of different sporting activities completely FREE of charge. Among the attractions will be opportunities to hone your skills and enjoy coaching from the staff of the Premiership League Champions, Chelsea Football Club's Community Foundation, the South of England's largest lacrosse team Cobham Lacrosse testing the speed of your shot and Royals cheerleading team on hand to show off their skills and hand out their top tips, plus many more! This is going to be a great day out that really does have something for everyone.

This is followed on Saturday 22nd by our Family Fun Day which combines top class racing with great family entertainment. There will be an array of FREE entertainment with children's favourites Peppa Pig and George making personal appearances at intervals throughout the day.

The racing is top quality with three races selected for live coverage by Channel 4. These include two Group 3 contests, the Solaris Stakes previously won by such equine stars as Kingman and Ravens Pass and the Atalanta Stakes won recently by Fintry, Integral and Dank. Family Fun Day is fantastic value for money with all under 18s admitted free with a paying adult. These are two great fun days out for everyone and we encourage you to come and share it with us. Don't miss out, book your adult tickets in advance to save money at www.sandown.co.uk or call 01372 47 77 47 to enquire about our hospitality options.

Have you ever written a play and dreamed of seeing it performed in a theatre?

Well now is your chance to see your work on stage in the twelfth annual One Acts festival.

The week-long festival, staged by Surbiton's Cornerhouse, is looking for plays for the event that runs in May 2016.

The festival celebrates the best in original writing and scripts can be between 15 and 30 minutes long with no subject off limits.

Performances about Elvis, mouse hunting, a sudoku addict, a group of clowns, internet dating and a time-travelling Ofsted inspector have all been staged in the past.

Chairman of the One Acts festival Jon Constant says: "One Acts is not just about great writing it is about encouraging everyone to get involved in all aspects of theatre."

"Anyone can enter a play, volunteer to direct or produce, audition to act or become part of the backstage or front of house crew."

In recent years the festival has become a highly-respected event in the local and national arts scene and plays will be judged by well-established theatre professionals.

Mr Constant says: "A number of plays will be selected by our panel of judges and yours may well be the lucky one. Even if it isn't, you will still get feedback to help you with your future writing."

The deadline for submissions is Saturday, October 31. Notes on how to submit your plays can be found at thech.org.

Pull on your trainers and get ready for a late summer and autumn fitness blitz. We've rounded up the best of the August and September's 10k runs to help you plan your athletic endeavours. For the full list, including 5ks and longer runs, go to your-localguardian.co.uk/vibe

Picture perfect

The majority of people looking for a property will make their first impression of your home from the pictures, and that may be the deciding factor as to whether they decide to book a viewing, writes Anna Francis.

Here are some tips for making your home look as photogenic as possible:

De-Clutter: When someone is looking at pictures of your home, seeing it full of clutter is quite likely to put them off.

Tidying up your house will give you more floor space and make your property appear to be more spacious in the pictures. Try and put everything you own into cupboards and store it out of the way, even if it is just a temporary measure.

Bring the Outside In: Try and make your home look as fresh and inviting as possible – buy some bright, colourful flowers, or bring some in from the garden, and put them in a nice vase to feature in your photos. If you need some inspiration, try looking in home magazines.

Tell a Story: However you use the space in your home, it is important that the photographs of the rooms present it in the way that buyers will want to see it.

For example, if you use your third bedroom as a storage area, make sure you dress it up as a bedroom for the photos.

For the sitting room, turn on the fire if you have one, plump up the cushions, and light some candles to show the room is cosy and lived-in.

Set the table in your kitchen, fill the bread bin, and line some potted herbs along the windowsill. These little extra touches will present your property as a happy home.

Let in the Light: Open all the blinds and curtains, and have the photos taken when there is enough natural light to nicely highlight the features of the room.

Potential buyers always look for houses that get plenty of light, so showcase it wherever you can.

Curb Appeal: The exterior of your house is just as important as the interior – a home on the market that doesn't show any pictures of the outside space or shows it looking shabby and unkempt is sure to put off any potential buyers.

Cut your lawn, trim back plants and bushes, and clear up any leaves on your drive way. Remove any cars and garden equipment before taking the pictures, and make sure you show off both the front and back of your property.

Conditions of acceptance of advertisements

General

- The following conditions apply to the placing of an order for insertion of advertisements in Newsquest Media Group ("Newsquest") printed or electronic publications. Each order will form a separate agreement and English law will apply. Any change to these conditions must be agreed by us in writing (which means by exchange of letter, fax or email). An "advertiser" means any person or organisation placing an advertisement on their own account or on behalf of another.

Contents

- The advertiser confirms that the advertisement complies with all applicable legislation, regulations and codes of practice, including the codes supervised by the Advertising Standards Authority. We may reject or require changes to any advertisement so as to comply with legal or moral obligations placed on us or the advertiser; to avoid infringing the rights of a third party or any relevant code of practice; or to meet our published production and quality specifications.
- The advertiser further confirms that:
 - the publication of the advertisement will not breach any contract, infringe the copyright, trademark or other right of any third party and is not libelous of any person;
 - all licences and consents from third parties necessary for the publication of the advertisement have been obtained and paid for, including consent from living persons identified in copy or pictures (photographic or otherwise);
 - in respect of an investment advertisement, the contents have been approved by, or the advertiser is, and authorised person within the meaning of the Financial Services Act 1986 as amended or the advertisement is otherwise permitted under that Act.

Payment

- All advertisements must be paid for in full at the time of booking unless credit has been agreed. The price shall be the amount fixed by our published rate card on the date of acceptance of the order plus VAT where applicable. For non-credit advertisers, we will cancel publication of an advertisement that has not been paid for on time. For credit advertisers, we will cancel publication of any future advertisements if payment is not made in accordance with our payment terms. For credit advertisers, interest will be charged on late payments at the rate of 3% above the Bank of England's base lending rate from the date payment is due together with the administration costs of collecting an overdue debt.
- By placing an order with us, an advertising agency confirms that it contracts as principal with full authority from its client in all matters connected with the order and is responsible for all payments due. We will only accept advertisements from advertising agencies if they are recognised by us.
- We will try to give notice of increases, but we reserve the right to change our advertising rates at any time. This will not affect contracts, including any fixed term agreement for a series of advertisements.

Box numbers

- We will use reasonable efforts to forward replies to box numbers within a reasonable time, but we are not responsible for any failure or delay caused by circumstances beyond our reasonable control, or for any losses relating to an advertiser's business or any loss that is not reasonably foreseeable by both parties.

Method of payment

We will be pleased to accept your payment by any of the following methods:

- CHEQUE - Made payable to NEWSQUEST (LONDON) LTD.
- BACS - Electronic Bank Transfer
- CASH - Paid to one of our Branch Offices.
- CREDIT/DEBIT CARD - Please phone to pay by Visa/Mastercard/Switch/Delta

Cancellation

- We will notify the advertiser of the latest time that orders can be cancelled (the "booking" deadline) and the latest time that advertising copy can be received by us ("the copy deadline"). An advertiser may cancel up until copy deadline and we will make reasonable efforts to re-sell the space, but the advertiser will be liable for the full price if the space is not sold and we will reclaim any unearned volume-based discount. Private advertisers booking by telephone or online may cancel in accordance with relevant law, but no refund shall be available after the copy deadline unless cancellation is due to our negligence. If the copy is not received by the copy deadline, we will not be liable if the advertisement does not appear, but the advertiser will remain liable to make full payment for the price of the advertisement.
- We will try to satisfy an advertiser's request regarding the positioning of an advertisement, but no guarantee of position can be given unless agreed by us and paid for at the rate then current.

Errors

- We are not liable for any error, misprint or non-appearance of an advertisement unless caused by our negligence, in which case the advertiser will be entitled to a re-insertion or proportionate refund. The advertiser is solely responsible for checking the advertisement on each insertion and ordering correction where necessary. Except where we have been negligent, we shall not be liable for an error or misprint that, in our reasonable opinion, does not materially detract from the advertisement. We shall not be liable in any case for losses relating to any business or public fund-raising for the advertiser, such as lost customers, revenue or profit.

Copyright

- Advertisements are accepted on condition that we have the right to publish them online as well as in any booked titles. The copyright in work or material we contribute to or re-work for an advertisement belongs to us. We will dispose of advertiser's copy, artwork, photographs or other materials after six months unless collected.

General

- We shall not be liable if our publishing activities are restricted or prevented by any law, act or event beyond our reasonable control (including, for example, industrial dispute). In such case, the advertiser shall accept publication when available or otherwise may cancel the order by written notice and pay only for work done and materials used.
- We will use the advertiser's details for internal administration. Unless the advertiser tells us not to in writing at any time, we may also share details with other Newsquest companies or with carefully selected third parties, who may send information about goods and services.
- The advertiser will be liable to pay us for all costs, losses, expenses and damages of any kind suffered or incurred by us as a result of legal claims or actions, actual or threatened, arising from the advertiser's breach of these conditions or the publications of the advertisement, unless caused by our own negligent act or failure.
- We may cancel the order at any time if the advertiser breaches these conditions and the breach is not capable of remedy or it continues for seven days after we have given written notice of it, or if we reasonably believe the advertiser is unable to pay debts or the advertiser goes or threatens to go out of business.

What's new? The HR-V is Honda's interpretation of an affordable yet premium compact SUV. Tasked with battling with the likes of Nissan's Qashqai and Mazda's CX-3, the HR-V blends familiar Honda technology and versatility with bold design themes.

The HR-V boasts a spacious cabin, clever folding rear seats and an accessible load bay, it's targeted firmly at families seeking an active lifestyle.

Looks and image: You can see elements of Honda's existing Civic and CR-V models in the design of this HR-V. Hondas are bought on the strength of reputation, which centres around dependability and reliability. There's more than a sense of those attributes in the HR-V.

Space and practicality: The HR-V offers owners the same type of folding rear seats from the Honda Jazz and a cabin large enough to accommodate a three-metre-long load. Head and legroom in the rear is a match for cars a class above.

Behind the wheel: Weighty steering, good ride quality over a variety of road surfaces and an adjustable driving position all help to keep drivers happy.

Key to the car's appeal are its two engines, a familiar 1.6-litre diesel and new 1.5-litre petrol unit. The former is mated to a slick six-speed manual gearbox, while the latter can also be had with a city-friendly CVT auto transmission. The diesel turns the HR-V into a great all-rounder, as it's just at home on the motorway as it is chugging along in the city. In petrol guise, the car is a good choice for urban use and there's no questioning the CVT gearbox's role as a labour-saving device for the morning commute.

Value for money: Honda doesn't do 'bargain basement', but the HR-V strikes a good balance if you're after a premium ambience for sensible money. Standard kit levels are high, with all bar the base model getting a flash-looking colour touchscreen as part of the infotainment system. Cabin quality is above average. Modest emissions and fuel consumption performance from both engines should also do wonders for your bank balance.

Facts at a glance

Honda HR-V SE Navi, £22,105

A first for Volvo

Volvo's first petrol plug-in hybrid, the XC90 T8 Twin Engine, has qualified for the UK Plug-in Car Grant (PICG) scheme from the Office of Low Emission Vehicles (OLEV). The Swedish firm's new XC90 T8 Twin Engine is now available at £54,955 (including PICG). With a combined output of 407hp, this seven-seat SUV emits just 49g/km of CO₂, as well as being able to go from zero to 60mph in 5.3 seconds.

Iheke is 400m queen of England

Kingston & Polytechnic Harrier Mary Iheke, right, was crowned the 400m queen of England on Sunday, writes Stuart Amos.

The 24-year-old, who finished fourth at the British Championships in July, clocked 53.60 seconds to claim England Athletics Senior Championship gold in Bedford.

Clubmate Nicolle Kendall, 19, was 0.55 secs off securing an impressive one-two for Kingston as she finished third in the same race in a time of 55.63secs.

Aiming high: Surbiton's Holly Munro

Busy girl

Surbiton's Holly Munro has set her sights on being named England U18 captain next season, writes Frank Smith.

England beat Belgium 2-0 in their third-place play-off in Spain on Saturday to claim EuroHockey Youth Championship bronze in a hard-fought tournament.

Kingston Grammar School student Munro had previously stated just making the England U18 squad for the European Championships was one of her short-term goals.

But now she has plenty more on her plate.

"My main aspiration is to captain the England U18 team at the Euros next year, which is hopefully a realistic aim, and we have school and club stuff as well," she said.

I would also like to have more of an influence at my club. Because of my position I compete against [GB and England players] Giselle Ansley and Hollie Webb so being able to play more at Surbiton would be great as well.

"The Olympics is the long-term goal, but I'm hopeful of playing in the Junior World Cup as well so that is another goal I am working towards."

Ks boss Tommy Williams says goalkeeper Rob Tolfrey rates as one of the Ryman Premier League's best.

The former Whyteleafe shotstopper celebrated six years at Kingsmeadow last Thursday with a testimonial clash against League Two landlords AFC Wimbledon, which finished 1-1.

Tolfrey, suspended for the first five games of the new campaign, was among the first on Williams' list to pin down to a contract this term.

And the manager believes he would have been on the wishlists of many of his rivals.

"Rob has been a credit to the football club," said Williams.

"Goalkeepers are an important area of any team and good ones are hard to come by.

"For the Ryman Premier League he is right up there with the best.

"Every year he has put in consistent performances and is one of our most consistent performers and we are delighted to have got him on board for another year."

Tolfrey described his night in the spotlight as one he would never forget and thanked the 500 plus fans in attendance, who watched Malachi Hudson level George Pilbeam's 50th minute opener.

Ks go into Saturday's Ryman Premier League opener at Leiston in fine form after a Richard Jolly brace and one from Dan Bennett accounted for Redhill 3-1 on Saturday.

Pelayo Pico Gomez, Jake Kempton and Bennett were on the scoresheet as Big night: Rob Tolfrey, above, was unable to claim a cleansheet in his testimonial match that featured a second half equaliser from Malachi Hudson, bottom right. Richard Jolly, right, bagged a brace in Saturday's 3-1 win at Redhill FC

Williams' side thrashed an in-form Corinthian Casuals outfit 3-0 at King George's Field on Monday.

Williams completed his summer transfer business early to give his squad a chance to settle ahead of the campaign.

And he wants his men to hit the ground running when it comes to August 8.

"We have had a good pre-season. The players have gelled well and there is competition for places in all areas," he added.

"I think fans are starting to see the patterns and style of play we want from the squad.

"We are looking sharp. "We are going to have to be at our best at Leiston as I would think they'll be up there this year."

Snared: Malden's Will Sabey (28), was one of Old Whitgift bowler Mo Raza's five victims on Saturday

Mo stifles Malden

Old Whitgiftian bowler Mo Raza claimed five wickets to set up a winning draw at Malden Wanderers in Surrey Championship Division One on Saturday.

Raza (5-62) claimed three of the first four wickets to fall, but Wanderers recovered from 93 for five to post 221 all out thanks to Danny Murphy's unbeaten 57.

Kevin Boudville (6-65) thought he had bowled Malden to victory, but Raza (7*) and number 11 Amir Raza (4*) got the visitors to 185 for nine at the close.

Resistance: Old Whitgift's Mo Raza starred with bat and ball on Saturday

Casuals take one game at a time

Corinthian Casuals boss James Bracken is not getting carried away with his side's pre-season form after Saturday's 3-0 triumph at Ryman Premier League Met Police, writes Stuart Amos.

A brace from Jamie Byatt was topped off by a second half goal from Emmanuel at Imber Court to secure a comfortable win, with an injury to goalkeeper Danny Bracken being the only downside.

Casuals came down to earth with a bump on Monday as they crashed 3-0 at home to Ryman Premier League Ks but Bracken was delighted with how his men have prepared for the Ryman Division One South kick-off and the visit of Worthing on Saturday.

"There can be nothing but positives at the moment," he said.

"We won't be getting carried away and we'll approach one game at a time.

"I know last season, other people put five game targets in, but we don't.

"We play one at a time, try and impose ourselves on that game, play the way I want them to play and put ourselves out there in a good position."

A second string Casuals team won 5-1 at Combined Counties side Westfield on Saturday and Bracken admits he now has a selection headache for the weekend and beyond.

"It gives me a problem, a good problem and one that every manager says they want but realistically, I don't know if I want 30 good players," he added.

"I'd be happy with 16 to 18 good players."

GOLDEN BOY: Worcester Park's Daniel Wolff followed in his great grandfather's footsteps by winning gold for his country and described his Special Olympics World Games moment as "a dream come true". Wolff, who is autistic, was victorious in the 400 metres in Los Angeles last Wednesday. His great grandfather, Frederick Wolff, ran the opening leg when Great Britain claimed gold and set a new European record in the 4x400 relay at the 1936 Olympic Games in Berlin.
